Letter of Recommendation

Re: Danielle Glaeser

To Whom It May Concern:

I have known Danielle Glaeser since the spring of 2001 when she began private piano instruction with me. Since that time, she has proven herself to be a highly intelligent and mature young lady who takes her own education very seriously.

Over years of study with me, I have grown to know Danielle both musically and personally. Her intelligence and affable nature will serve her well in life, no matter her course of higher education and pursuit of varied interests. She is quick to question but is also quick to understand. She possesses a balance of independent thinking and a willingness to integrate that is far beyond her years.

I have seen her grow musically and personally over the past several years. It has been a real joy to work with her as she is highly respectful and responsive, which makes her a delight to teach and a true compliment to my studio. However, her intense interests in the humanities and academics in general give Danielle a depth of understanding, which is quite uncommon in her peers.

Finally, her willingness to share and communicate knowledge and associate with those of a like-minded nature only adds to her unique character. Her participation in field and track and other sporting activities has taught her the meaning of cooperation and teamwork, qualities that are increasingly vital in our society.

It is without reservation that I can support Danielle Glaeser's candidacy. She will make an excellent student, regardless of which university she decides to attend for her next phase of education.

Most sincerely,
